MY PRACTICE

INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

Thomas helps his clients navigate a variety of intellectual property issues, including trademarks, copyrights, trade secrets, idea protection, data privacy, and digital marketing. Thomas works with businesses and other content creators to identify, enforce and exploit their intellectual property rights. He also litigates intellectual property infringement and trade secrets misappropriation lawsuits in both state and federal courts, and handles trademark proceedings before the USPTO's Trademark Trial and Appeal Board.

FILM & TELEVISION

Thomas represents individuals and companies active in all types of entertainment projects, from film and television, to online videos and other media. Thomas regularly works with independent producers and other filmmakers, counseling his clients throughout the pre-production, production, post-production and distribution processes. Thomas has represented and negotiated with production companies, talent and entertainment lawyers from all over the country, helping talented people bring creative ideas all the way from inception to the screen.

Thomas serves as an Adjunct Professor of Entertainment Law at Elon University School of Law. He also has a personal interest in film and television, and is active in North Carolina's film industry. Most notably, he serves on the board of trustees for Cucalorus Film Festival, one of the Southeast's largest independent film festivals.

In addition, Thomas also works on the literature side of entertainment, counseling authors on a variety of legal issues that arise throughout the publishing process, including contract negotiations and copyright and fair use issues.

CIVIL LITIGATION

Thomas represents companies and individuals in complex business litigation in both federal and state court. He has represented businesses and individuals in lawsuits involving a variety of issues, including contract disputes, intellectual property infringement claims, trade secrets misappropriation claims, non-competition and non-solicitation agreements, construction disputes, shareholders' rights, insurance subrogation claims, constitutional rights and lender liability claims. Thomas also litigates in front of the USPTO's Trademark Trial and Appeal Board.

GENERAL CORPORATE

Thomas has become a trusted advisor for many of his clients, transitioning from an intellectual property attorney or entertainment attorney to general counsel for the businesses he works with. Thomas is in daily communication with many of his clients, advising on a variety of legal issues, from labor and employment matters to real estate issues. His clients may be based in North Carolina, but many do business all over the world. His regular clients include a medical practice, an online social networking company, technology and software companies, a manufacturing company and a securities broker-dealer.
