Brooks Pierce attorney Will Quick was recently selected to participate in the 2017 Triangle Urban Land Institute's Partnership Forum. The Partnership Forum is a mentoring, leadership and industry education program where emerging industry leaders and Triangle real estate veterans discuss professional ideas and relevant real estate issues.

Each forum consists of between eight and 12 participants and an established senior member of the Triangle Urban Land Institute. The groups meet on a regular basis for a year to share each other's business and personal experiences in an environment of openness and trust.

"I am honored to have been selected for this program and look forward to both networking with and learning from others involved with development, land use and construction," said Quick.
