Brooks Pierce’s mergers and acquisitions and real estate practices were recognized in the second annual IFLR1000 state-specific rankings. The mergers and acquisitions practice received a Tier 3 ranking, while the real estate practice was ranked as “Recommended.”

IFLR is the guide to the world’s leading financial and corporate law firms, ranking the practice areas of mergers and acquisitions, restructuring and insolvency, banking and capital markets.

“As a firm, we take pride in our ability to tackle challenging and complex problems for our clients and to help them obtain successful solutions. This recognition of our mergers and acquisitions and real estate practices by IFLR shows that others recognize, appreciate and respect the hard work of our attorneys,” said Reid Phillips, managing partner of Brooks Pierce.

The IFLR1000 rankings are primarily based on transactional evidence, peer feedback and client feedback. More information on the ranking process can be found here.
