

Best Lawyers Names House and Winslow Greensboro 2011 ‘Lawyers of the Year’

October 21, 2010

Subscribe to News and Insights

 Via RSS

 Via Email

Best Lawyers, a respected peer-review publication in the legal profession, has named George W. House as the “Greensboro Best Lawyers Environmental Lawyer of the Year” and Edward C. Winslow III as the “Greensboro Best Lawyers Banking Lawyer of the Year” for 2011.

Best Lawyers designates a single lawyer in each specialty in large legal communities as the “Lawyer of the Year.” The lawyers being honored as “Lawyers of the Year” have received particularly high ratings by earning a high level of respect among their peers for their abilities, professionalism, and integrity.

George House has experience in virtually every substantive and procedural matter involving environmental law, with extensive litigation experience before administrative hearing offices, judges, juries, and appellate courts. He represents textile manufacturing companies, furniture manufacturing companies, foundries, mining companies, integrated forest products producing and manufacturing companies, real estate developers, metallurgical companies, oil products distribution companies, communication companies, and a large number of municipal governments on environmental matters.

Ed Winslow represents business and corporate clients with an emphasis in the fields of banking and financial services. Principal clients include bankers associations, banks, savings banks, insurers, and other financial services firms within and outside North Carolina. He is a frequent speaker and writer on topics involving financial services law and currently serves as Managing Partner of Brooks Pierce.