

Our Blogs

We invite you to explore Brooks Pierce blogs.

DIGITAL MEDIA AND DATA PRIVACY LAW BLOG

The contributors to Brooks Pierce's Digital Media & Data Privacy Law comprise our firm's digital media & data privacy practice group. They cover topics such as data breaches, cyberattacks, drones, privacy regulation, HIPAA, public records requests, privacy policies, cyberinsurance, and other issues that touch their clients.

DJ COUNSEL

Brooks Pierce attorney Coe Ramsey is a former DJ who discusses music and entertainment law. His blog provides counsel on legal issues related to copyrights, trademarks, performance and songwriting royalties, licensing, and other issues pertinent to those in the music, television, and film industries.

MIDLAW AND DIVERS ITEMS

Brooks Pierce partner Ed Winslow blogs about the future of the legal profession, leadership, mid-sized law firms, Millennials, hummus, Guilford College, the benefits of a liberal arts degree, and, occasionally, Brooks Pierce. His blog posts have been commented upon widely, and have formed the basis for several talks for the Bar or other audiences.

NORTH CAROLINA BUSINESS LITIGATION REPORT

While litigator Mack Sperling is on leave from the daily practice of law, he continues to author the long-standing and well-respected North Carolina Business Litigation Report blog. Mack covers everything related to the North Carolina Business Court, and says "This is a blog for lawyers, though I don't mean to run anyone off who wants to read it. But I'm writing, for the most part, about cases that involve issues of North Carolina business law, and the day-to-day practice of business litigation in North Carolina courts."
