

Triad Business Journal quotes Kearns Davis in "New N.C. Bar Association leader says court tech a top priority"

June 27, 2015

Subscribe to News and Insights

Via RSS

Via Email

Brooks Pierce attorney and NCBA President-Elect Kearns Davis spoke with Owen Covington of the Triad Business Journal regarding North Carolina's court technology.

Covington writes:

"A former federal prosecutor and now working in criminal defense as a partner at Brooks Pierce in Greensboro, Davis said he hopes to make improving the technology of the state's court system a priority during the next two years.

'That's a high priority for a lot of folks within the system,' Davis told me."

The entire article may be accessed here.